THE GENEROUS EDITION
PUBLIC SHOWCASE · 01

The blue hours.

Ibiza, with room to linger.
Five nights between stone,
salt and an open sea.

TWO ADULTS · SEPTEMBER · AN IMAGINED €24,000 ESCAPE

A different kind of abundance.

Spend on a beautiful base, a good captain and the freedom to change your mind.

At the edge of Ibiza, the land does not dissolve into the sea. It breaks into pale shelves, little inlets and hard silhouettes. Look long enough and blue becomes a geography: shallow green over sand, dark patches over living meadow, a deeper band beyond the bay.

This edition begins in the north. There are five nights in one room, a day for the old town, another for the southern coast, and one uncommitted day at sea. The generous budget buys continuity: the same bed, a driver for the long outings, no race back to a ferry.

It leaves room for Ibiza's other scales too: a bowl of rice after the fish, a narrow passage inside the walls, salt pans drawn in long, low rectangles.

The imagined commission
Two anonymous adults. Five nights, six calendar days, in September of an unspecified year. One shared room. Food, swimming, design and history; one late evening if desired. €24,000 total excluding flights.

This is a newly written public sample, not a record of anyone's holiday. Nothing is booked. All spend is an editorial allowance; no availability or future opening dates have been claimed.

An island, in three chapters.

North for the base. East for the walls.
South for one long, salt-edged day.

PINS 01–02 / NORTH
Arrival and the first full day stay close to Xarraca and Sant Llorenç.

PIN 03 / TOWN
A dedicated afternoon in Dalt Vila. Return after dinner with a driver.

PINS 04–06 / SOUTH
Ses Salines, Es Torrent and optional Cala d'Hort belong together.

DAYS 01–02 / THE NORTHERN SHORE

Begin with a bay.

1 Arrive, unpack, stay put.

Have a car waiting at the airport and go straight north. Use the first afternoon for the room and the water, if conditions allow. Keep dinner at the hotel; the first evening is a poor place to spend an hour crossing the island.

Planning buffer: allow about 50–70 minutes from the airport to the Xarraca area. This is an editorial driving allowance, not a timed route result. Confirm it with the transfer provider.

2 A northern radius.

Begin with a swim near the base, then make Sant Llorenç the day's one inland excursion. Choose La Paloma for dinner in the garden; its evening menu is Italian-inspired, while the daytime café follows a different, Middle Eastern direction.

Keep it light: one return drive, roughly 25–35 minutes each way by planning allowance. If the sea is rough, extend breakfast and move a spa treatment here. No cliff scramble is needed to make the day.

A room with a horizon.

Six Senses Ibiza · Sea View Cave Suite

The Xarraca coast, by pazzosi / CC BY-SA 3.0. A destination image; the suite is shown in the official linked gallery.

The cave idea is most persuasive at the scale of two people: a sheltered room, an open threshold, the sea beyond it. This category is the starting point for the trip, rather than a promise that the largest suite will make the best holiday.

The hotel lists a 63 m² interior and a 26 m² terrace, one bedroom and a maximum of two guests. It also lists a walk-in shower and a bathtub in the bedroom. That last detail matters if bathroom privacy is important.

The official images show the terrace opening through broad timber-framed doors. Ask for the exact room category and floor plan before paying; photographs are evidence of design, not of the particular view you will be assigned.

Why this base
It keeps the northern sea close and puts the resort's services within reach. The trade-off is a longer drive to the south and Ibiza Town.

Before accepting a quote
Confirm five-night total, taxes, breakfast, cancellation, room access, terrace privacy and any event sound near the assigned suite.

Garden, sea or a house.

01 / THE RURAL ALTERNATIVE

Atzaró · Suite

A garden-facing suite with a terrace and king bed on Atzaró's inland estate. The official suite page includes breakfast, spa facilities and yoga/wellness classes among its listed inclusions. Reconfirm those against the selected rate.

Choose it for: the estate and garden atmosphere. Official photographs show pale walls, substantial timber beds and sheltered terraces.
Give up: the immediate sea horizon. Ask which suite has a bath as well as a shower, and how far it sits from event areas.
Inspect the suite gallery ↗

02 / THE PRIVATE-POOL HOUSE

Six Senses · Three Bedroom Residence

The strongest villa-style option for this northern route: a private garden and pool, a fully appointed kitchen, independent entrance and bedrooms with individual bathrooms. Hotel services remain part of the proposition.

Choose it for: a house-shaped day, cooking and private outdoor space. The official exterior shows a lawn, pool and outdoor dining.
The trade-off: two adults pay for three bedrooms. Obtain a separate whole-stay quote; it is not assumed to fit the €10,000 lodging allocation.

03 / THE EXTRAVAGANT DETOUR

Ca s'Uzina by Atzaró

An eight-bedroom, eight-bathroom finca above the Morna Valley, with multiple living rooms and terraces. Its gallery supports the appeal of whitewashed spaces and broad outdoor living. For two, it is deliberate excess: consider only for exclusive use as a new budget exercise. Minimum stay, staffing, fees and deposit remain unverified. Official villa gallery ↗

No rates, availability or review scores are asserted. Galleries were inspected; room allocation, recent guest experience and measured Wi-Fi were not independently verified. Property photographs are linked, not reproduced without permission.

DAY 03 / EIVISSA

The wall & the street.

From the harbour, Dalt Vila reads as a single object: stone stacked above the water. Inside, it becomes a sequence of corners. The grand outline and the small passage tell different stories.

The Renaissance defences were built to protect the communications between Spain and Italy. UNESCO identifies their influence on later Spanish fortifications in the Americas. Their scale belongs to a network much larger than this island.

Within that military shell, the street pattern retains a medieval intimacy. Let the walk move between the two: broad views from the fortifications, then the close grain of doors and lanes.

AFTERNOON INTO EVENING

One ascent. A long dinner.

Keep the morning at the hotel. Leave for town after lunch; allow 45–60 minutes by car. Enter via Portal de ses Taules, wander upward toward the cathedral square, then descend at an unhurried pace. Allow around two hours on foot, more for stops.

Choose Corsario for a dinner within Dalt Vila. Its official site describes a Mediterranean menu and a terrace overlooking the port. Confirm seasonal opening and the current menu before fixing this day.

Ground truth: gradients and cobbles make this more demanding than the distance suggests. Take grippy shoes; a driver cannot remove the climb inside the old town.

The island at the table.

The rice arrives after the fish. That is a reason to leave space.

1 Bullit de peix

A fish preparation dressed with all i oli, followed by arroz a banda. Think of it as a meal in two movements. Ask about the catch, the number of diners and whether the rice is included before ordering.

2 Crostes

Twice-baked bread, softened for a salad with ingredients such as tomato, onion and dried fish. A useful reminder that texture can be the subject of a dish, not merely its garnish.

3 Flaó

Fresh cheese and mint in a tart. A finishing note that belongs to the island's own repertoire, alongside greixonera, made with leftover ensaïmada.

THE RESERVATION SHORTLIST

Three tables, three settings.

La Paloma · Sant Llorenç
Garden dinner on the northern day. Book the evening restaurant if you want its Italian-inspired menu; the café is a different offering.

Es Torrent · South coast
The substantial seafood lunch on Day 4. Its published 2026 menu includes bullit de peix and rice dishes. Confirm advance ordering and any minimum number of diners.

Corsario · Dalt Vila
The town evening, with the port below. A terrace request is a request, not a seating guarantee.

Our spending rule
Ask for the weight and price of whole fish before it is cooked. A lavish lunch is more enjoyable when the bill is understood.

Dietary restrictions should be checked directly at reservation. Fish stock, shellfish, dairy and gluten can appear in dishes whose short menu description does not tell the whole story.

Ses Salines from above. A.Savin, Wikipedia / Free Art License 1.3. Cropped.

DAY 04 / THE SOUTH COAST

Salt in the landscape.

From above, Ses Salines looks measured: water in rectangles, causeways drawn between them, the sea curved around the edge. The order is human. The surrounding dunes, pines and junipers belong to a larger coastal system.

The beach is part of the Ses Salines natural park, where salt marshes provide habitat for birds. Resist treating it as an empty stage for a photograph. Stay on permitted paths, leave vegetation undisturbed and look from the edges.

Make the southern journey once and give it the whole day. A long lunch is an anchor; a second beach is optional.

09:00 / Leave the north
Allow 60–80 minutes to Ses Salines; this is a traffic-sensitive planning buffer.

Late morning / Salt & shore
A short walk and a swim if conditions permit. Do not schedule wildlife sightings.

13:30 / Es Torrent
Allow 25–40 minutes between the Salines area and the restaurant. Reserve a long lunch.

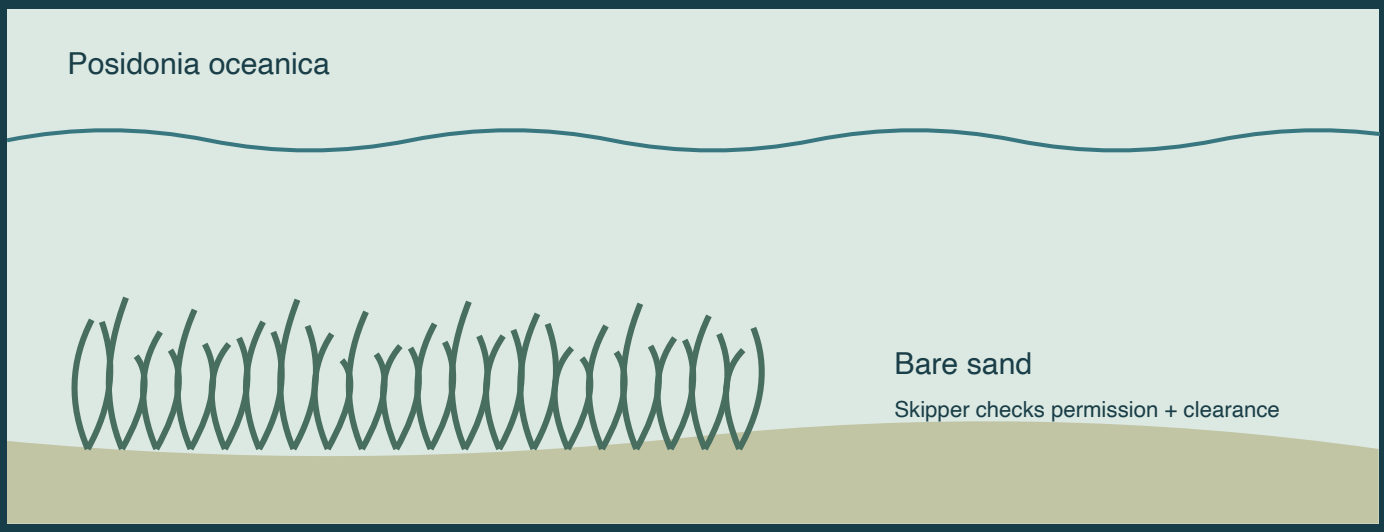

Later / An optional western view
Continue to Cala d'Hort only if you still want another stop; otherwise return north. Use the public beach view of Es Vedrà, subject to access conditions, rather than an unverified cliff trail.

Arrange the driver's full waiting time and return in advance. This is the itinerary's longest road day; a late-night event does not belong after it.

The blue is alive.

A beautiful anchorage is also somebody's habitat.

Original conceptual illustration. Not to scale; not a seabed survey or navigation chart.

Posidonia is a seagrass, not seaweed. UNESCO includes its underwater meadows in Ibiza's mixed cultural and natural World Heritage site. The living landscape below the surface is as much a part of the destination as the fortifications above it.

A private boat does not buy permission to drop an anchor anywhere. Balearic rules generally prohibit anchoring on the plant. The entire operation, including the chain, must respect the meadow and local restrictions.

Ask the captain to choose the route for that day's wind and sea state. The ambition is several good hours on the water, not a compulsory lap of a famous island.

Commission the day.

Request a licensed, insured skippered charter for two. Have the operator state vessel, departure port, hours, fuel basis, tax, drinks, lunch arrangements, towels, cancellation and weather policy.

The €3,000 allocation on page 12 is a spending envelope, not an observed charter price. Confirm whether transfers and mooring charges sit inside it.

If the sea says no: exchange this day with Day 2 where reservations allow, or stay ashore for a spa afternoon and a second northern dinner. Retain the unused boat allowance.

Leave space at the end.

One last breakfast.

On departure day, keep the morning free of a distant reservation. Confirm checkout, luggage storage and the airport transfer the previous evening. Work backwards from the airline's requested airport arrival time, then add the north-to-airport driving buffer.

There are five hotel nights: after Days 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5. Day 6 ends at departure. This sample has no flights, dates or reservations hidden in it.

Book in this order.

1. The room. Choose a category and obtain the five-night all-in quote, terms and actual room layout.

2. The long outings. A town return, a southern day with waiting, and airport transfers. Define overtime and cancellation.

3. The tables. La Paloma, Corsario and Es Torrent. Match them to the route, then check seasonal opening.

4. The boat. Hold flexibility around sea conditions; agree the weather decision process before paying.

The generous ledger.

€24,000 buys a generous plan. It is not a bookable package.

Stay Five nights × €2,000 allowance	€10,000
Food & drinks Two adults across six days	€3,000
Ground transport Airports, town, north & south	€2,400
Skippered day Vessel, fuel & fees to be quoted	€3,000
Experiences Spa, guide or other chosen extras	€1,600
Taxes & incidental fees Reserve; reconcile quote inclusions	€1,000
Contingency Uncommitted, not a target to spend	€3,000

€24,000

TOTAL ALLOWANCE / €12,000 PER ADULT

Every line is an editorial estimate chosen for this synthetic brief. No date-specific rates, tax calculations or availability were obtained. Flights, shopping and refundable security deposits are excluded.

What to protect.

The room and the driver make the whole trip work. Protect those first. If the final hotel quote is higher, decide whether the boat or room category matters more before increasing the total.

What to compare.

Ask Six Senses and Atzaró to quote the same five nights for two adults, with breakfast and taxes identified. For a villa, add cleaning, service or booking fees, pool arrangements, staffing and the refundable deposit separately.

If a tax or transfer is included in a supplier quote, move that amount out of the reserve. Do not count it twice. The residence and Ca s'Uzina require a fresh budget; neither has been priced into this one.

Budget arithmetic checked: €10,000 + €3,000 + €2,400 + €3,000 + €1,600 + €1,000 + €3,000 = €24,000. A refundable deposit affects cash required, not necessarily final spend.
